

A Hula Hoop of Space

Music: Luke Howard

Prose: Sienna Brittain

Arrangement: Lior Attar

Spoken by: Jem Attar

“People have a hula hoop of space. Let them have that space. If you want to go inside it, then ask. Sometimes they say no, and then you can’t. And that’s OK, because you have your own hula hoop, so then you can just stay in there for a while until they are feeling better.

Countries should have a hula hoop of space too. If anyone wants to go to another country, they ask to go inside the hoop. The problem is now that everyone just goes inside the hoop to try to take the country and invade. Now, even if you ask to go inside a country’s hula hoop, they would probably say no because they are angry about the other people not asking.

People have a hula hoop of space. Let them have that space. If you want to go inside it, then ask. Sometimes they say no, and then you can’t. And in my hula hoop of space I like to read or imagine stories. But then sometimes I let Mum inside to give me a hug.”
